

Partnering to provide seamless access and bring data to life

From process discovery to AI models, digital transformation relies on data. And data presents some of the biggest challenges—and opportunities—to organizations today.

Flooded with raw, unstructured data from a multitude of sources and devices, teams need new solutions to securely manage, optimize and quickly draw impactful insights. Together, Aligned Automation and Denodo provide new ways to access, view and analyze data, empowering leaders to reimagine data usage and management.

The Denodo Platform connects and modernizes data. Using data virtualization, the platform connects data consumers with disparate sources of data in real time, without having to physically move any data from its existing location.

Aligned Automation ensures that the data being queried within the data lakes is trustworthy, secure and accessible at speed. We then bring our expertise in procurement, supply chain, customer experience and manufacturing to effectively build tailored intelligent solutions on top of the virtualized data that maximize and enhance value and human experiences.

What Aligned Automation brings

Aligned Automation enables intelligent operations by transforming data into actionable insights that drive value. We bring together your people, processes, technology and data to work in new ways and enable smart, integrated decision-making with our Nerve Center methodology.

We'll work with you to:

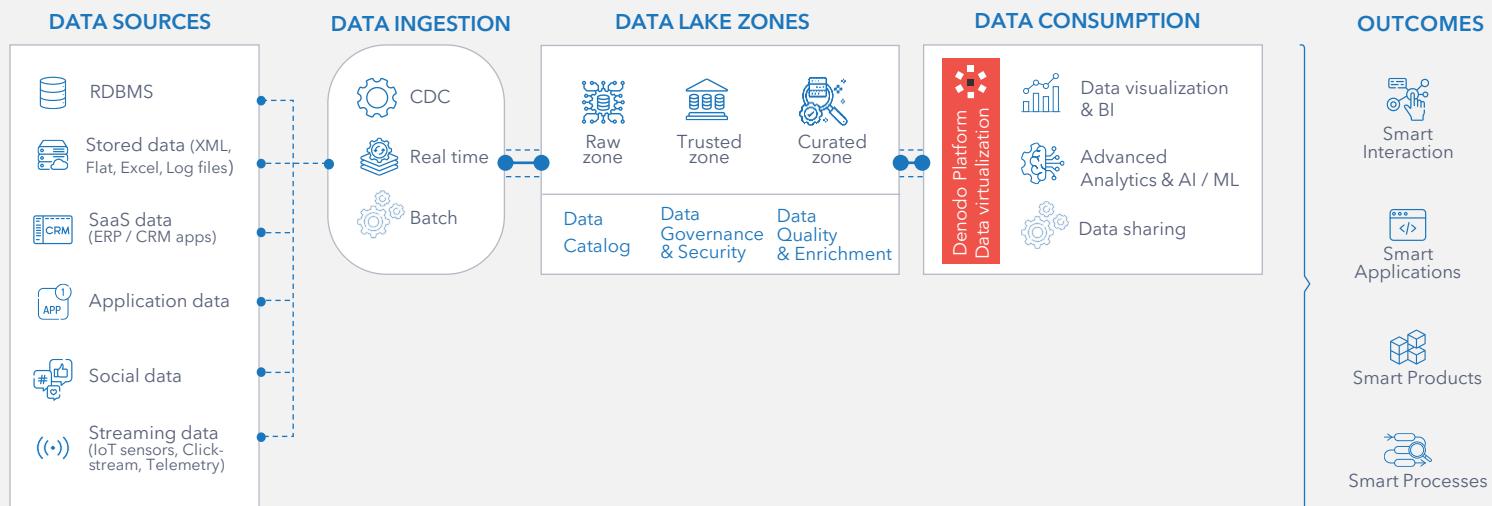

- Turn data into action with services such as data modernization and data visualization/BI, providing an actionable data-ecosystem road map and personalized, intuitive data views and insights.
- Develop a strategy, plan and execute solutions with a faster, more nimble approach.
- Understand the nuances of your business and deploy value-driven solutions with our techno-functional, collaborative engagement.
- Maximize what you already have in your technology stack to deliver what you need—enabling your organization to grow, differentiate and build resilience with speed and confidence.

What Denodo brings

The Denodo Platform is the industry's most advanced data management solution, powered by data virtualization. Establishing one data management platform for all different data sources provides easy access and enables full data integration and modeling capabilities.

The platform offers unique capabilities to help build a data-driven organization, including:

- Creating a single source of truth, enabling companies to manage security and governance protocols across the entire organization.
- Unlocking data for the success of AI/ML initiatives.
- Minimizing data replication, optimizing data sharing and data preparation and simplifying data provisioning and data changes.
- Enabling control of data storage and computing costs.
- Providing faster time to results and faster time to production.

Empowering you to take charge of your data

Working together, Aligned Automation and Denodo create a data-driven cultural shift within organizations, allowing business users the data accessibility they need to get to business realization.

Combining the award-winning Denodo Platform with Aligned Automation's leading data services leads to higher-quality data and a logical data architecture.

Our approach is data management, reimaged. It allows a focused conversation that's easily understandable for data users, who can ask themselves, "I want to solve this problem—how do I get to the right view of the data I need to make the right decisions?" and then get to the data insights they need, faster and more efficiently.

The end results for your business?

A partnership with powerful results:

- 20% increase in business productivity.
- 83% reduction in time-to-revenue.
- 67% reduction in data preparation effort.
- 65% decrease in delivery times over ETL.
- Faster, more impactful decision-making.
- Improved personalization of insights.
- Streamlined compliance.

Unlocked value. Maximized efficiency. Impactful cost savings.
Business resiliency into the future.
